The manuscript has not been previously published or submitted for publication in other journals. The study has been approved by the relevant ethics committee/ institution review boards of the respective institutions. Informed consent of the patients participating in the study has been undertaken. The study itself followed the ethical standards of the Helsinki Declaration, as revised in 2013 (available at: <http://www.wma.net/en/30publications/10policies/b3/>). Ethical considerations in accordance with the ethical standards of the responsible committee on human experimentation have been addressed in the “Materials and methods” section, if necessary. It is the responsibility of the authors/contributors to obtain permissions for reproducing any copyrighted material. Evidence for approval by a local ethics committee (for both human as well as animal studies) is supplied by the authors on demand. The related items are inserted under the ‘Materials and methods’ section. Conflicts of interest are declared obviously in the manuscript. The journal will not consider any manuscript which is ethically unacceptable. Plagiarism of text from a previously published manuscript by the same or another author is a serious publication offence. Small amounts of text may be used, but only where the source of the material quoted is clearly acknowledged and the text is inserted in quotation mark. If there is an allegation of plagiarism, scientific misconduct or fraud, the journal will follow the recommendations of the Committee on Publication Ethics/COPE (<http://publicationethics.org/>) and International Committee of Medical Journal Editors/ICMJE (<http://www.icmje.org/>). The journal reserves the right to report the allegations to the author’s institution or any other agency. Publication of the manuscript will not violate the privacy rights of the authors and does not require any other person.

Once approved to be published in the Journal of Food Quality and Hazards Control, the manuscript cannot be published elsewhere. The copyright form should be filled and signed by all the authors, and then scanned and emailed by corresponding author to the journal office (jfqc.ssu@gmail.com).
