The manuscript has not been previously published or submitted for publication in other journals. Once approved to be published in the open access (no charge) Journal of Food Quality and Hazards Control, the manuscript cannot be published elsewhere. The study has been approved by the relevant ethics committee/institution review boards of the respective institutions. Informed consent of the patients participating in the study has been undertaken. The study itself followed the ethical standards of the Helsinki Declaration (available at: <http://www.wma.net/en/30publications/10policies/b3/>). Ethical considerations in accordance with the ethical standards of the responsible committee on human experimentation have been addressed in the "Materials and methods" section, if necessary. It is the responsibility of the authors/contributors to obtain permissions for reproducing any copyrighted material. Evidence for approval by a local ethics committee (for both human as well as animal studies) is supplied by the authors on demand. The related items are inserted under the 'Materials and methods' section. Conflicts of interest including interest or relationship, financial or otherwise must be strictly declared obviously in the manuscript. Plagiarism of text from a previously published manuscript by the same or another author is a serious publication offence. Small amounts of text may be used, but only where the source of the material quoted is clearly acknowledged and the text is inserted in quotation mark. Regarding ethics of scientific publishing, the journal will follow the recommendations of the Committee on Publication Ethics/COPE (<http://publicationethics.org>) and International Committee of Medical Journal Editors/ICMJE (<http://www.icmje.org>). If this journal finds the potential or suspicion of misconduct, this journal will follow the COPE guidelines. If the journal ensure about the misconduct, this journal will contact to the author and request the author to address the issue. After establishment of the doubt, Editor-in-Chief will follow: if the manuscript is under consideration, it may be returned to the author or rejected; if the article has been published, it may retract and therefore the reason in detail will be published as retraction note; the journal may publish an erratum with explanation in detail; finally, the journal will contact the author's institution. The journal will not consider any manuscript which is ethically unacceptable. The journal reserves the rights to make further changes in language, grammar, style, presentation, etc. to suit the journal's requirements. Shortly before publication of the article, the journal may do further scientific revisions according to final comments of the editorial board.

The "Authors' Statement and Copyright Form" should be filled and signed by all the authors, and then scanned and emailed by corresponding author to the journal office (jfqc.ssu@gmail.com).
